Definitions:

Contributing (C) – means a structure which is a good example of a recognized architectural style, and which retains unaltered the major architectural details of that style. When a district is nominated to the National Register of Historic Places, every structure is designated “contributing” or “non-contributing.” An area must have more than 50% “contributing structures” to be listed on the National Register.

Non-Contributing (NC) - means either an historic structure which has been altered so much that the character-defining elements of its architectural style have been eliminated, or a structure less than 50 years old, the basic age for National Register consideration, or a structure constructed outside the historic district’s period of significance. The Hillcrest National Register District has a period of significance from 1890-1940.

Independently Listed (IL) – An independently listed structure is a property that meets the National Register Criteria for Evaluation and is listed as a singular site to the National Register of Historic Places, rather than being significant within a district. IL sites contribute to the historic district they are within, but they also would remain on the National Register list if the historic district dissolved.

Undetermined – means a structure that was unable to be determined as contributing or non-contributing when last surveyed. Undetermined structures do not count for or against a district’s contributing totals. This identification was done in the 1990s survey of the Hillcrest Historic District and is no longer practiced when resurveying districts. New surveys will make a contributing or non-contributing determination.
